

Open Call for Expression of Interest

A Trainer
To Deliver a Storytelling Workshop

Expressions of interest are sought for a trainer for a Storytelling Workshop. The trainer will design a curriculum for a 7-day training program, and deliver the workshop.

The workshop will be given to a group of max. 10 people from different backgrounds (theater, music, dance, cinema, journalism, etc.) with little or no experience in storytelling. The focus should be on writing for the stage and cover basic elements such as structure, plot, dramaturgy, character development, and dialogue with an emphasis in practice along with theory.

The theme of Cambodian Living Arts' season should be used for a practice exercise: 'exploring identity'.

At the end of the workshop, there should be a public reading/presentation of the work in progress.

The workshops will be delivered in English, with translation in Khmer by an assistant and will take place in Phnom Penh (Cambodia) from Feb 19 to Feb 25, 2018 (daily 8:30am-12pm, 2pm-5:30pm).

Trainer will be provided with a total package of 2,200 USD (to include local accommodation and transport, flight, and fee). The trainer will be working closely with the Head of Creative Programs and Arts Development Program Manager.

The candidate should:

- Have experience in writing for the stage (e.g. plays, librettos)
- Have experience in teaching and/or conducting workshops
- Have knowledge and interest in Southeast Asian performing arts, especially theater. Experience working with Cambodian artists and/or in Cambodia is an advantage

Please send your application by 15 Jan 2018 (12pm, Cambodian time) to YON Sokhorn, Arts Development Program Manager via sokhorn@cambodianlivingarts.org. The application should include a brief cover letter (1-page) setting out how you meet the above criteria, a brief summary of the tentative program (1-page), a CV (maximum 3 pages), and some samples of your work. Women are strongly encouraged to apply. Preference will be given to candidates based in Asia.

If you have any questions, please contact Sokhorn directly via email above.
