Testimonials

HM. King NORODOM Sihamoni

“Here where I see the power of art to transform hopeless to hopeful. The power to heal broken hearts and souls from a collective tragedy of a human history...It’s not just Cambodia’s story, it’s a story of humanity.”
SAN Sel

“Thanks Arts4peace for this marvelous opening night. It’s probably the best 5$ I’ve ever spent and this festival deserves more recognition.”
Kheng TK
“I was very impressed by the performances and the other programs that related to peace, environment, freedom and so on. I was able to learn about environmental problems through art. I would like to see more events like the Arts4peace festival. It’s a national platform where we can send out messages of peace.”

SUON Sotheara

“Arts4peace stood out to me for being so multifaceted. The sheer range of art forms and styles on display was staggering: photography, visual art, traditional performance, spoken theatre, performance art, traditional music, contemporary compositions on traditional instruments, film, a rock opera and a multidisciplinary requiem were only a few.”

KIM Ho

“The 3 plays from the Original Spoken Theater Night were a blast of fresh air. They all raised very clearly necessary social issues. I loved it!”

Eric ELLUL
"The final concert was a successful union of the spirit of the festival among participating groups. Particularly powerful was the opportunity for musicians of many genres and regions (especially from remote villages) to converge onto one stage. This type of exposure and exchange between a diversity of artists is important for artistic ethos in Cambodia."

Amara GOEL

"CLA's Arts4Peace festival provided an inclusive environment for discussions about all aspects of the arts in Cambodia. The format, which combined interactive activities, demonstrations, workshops, and full length evening performances, allowed participants like me to engage directly with artistic traditions of the past and present and to contemplate the future of the arts in the country."

Celia TUCHMAN-ROSTA

"A wonderful experience...The harpist from Ratanakiri was especially amazing. I hope there will be more occasions like this and I’d like to listen to their music more."

Keiko KITAMURA

With thanks to the Board of Directors of Cambodian Living Arts
Cambodian Living Arts’ (CLA) mission is to be a catalyst in a vibrant arts sector, inspiring new generations. Established in 1998, our original goal was to keep Cambodia’s endangered intangible heritage alive. As the context of Cambodia changed, and a new generation of artists began to emerge, we started running scholarships, fellowships and professional development training, whilst creating job opportunities and encouraging cultural entrepreneurship. To support the transforming environment, we also engage in cultural policy advocacy, support the development of arts education in public schools and build new audiences for arts. Our programs aim to give artists the resources and opportunities to start telling stories of contemporary Cambodia.

Cambodian Living Arts operates under the High Patronage of His Majesty King Norodom Sihamoni

In 2019, Cambodian Living Arts celebrates a full 20 years working in Cambodia. Today, we envision the arts and cultural expression as essential to a thriving future for Cambodia.

Expression is a fundamental part of being human. It’s part of interacting with the world around you, as more than an individual; playing an active role in the world in which you live.

It has always been at the core of CLA’s beliefs that art is at forward-looking people, who can look at the communities and systems that they are a part of, and explore the role they want to play. In today’s world, we need this more than ever.

Phloeun Prim
Executive Director
